BINDING

 · assent: standing bounded assent · subject: governance.superrepo-self-invocation

3-0 Privy Council ruling that canon super-repo self-invokes under REG-INVOCATION-001; Privy Council is realm first-instance court.

V2 Privy Council, 3-0. The canon super-repo (the realm-as-state) must self-invoke under REG-INVOCATION-001: binding flows from the kernel-readable invocation anchor (.vjs/config.toml + the locked lawpack digest + the recorded local_sovereign_invocation), never from authoring the law - authorship is no exemption (no-one above the law). Its self-subscription to its own lawpack is a coherent digest snapshot, not circular. The invocation already lodged is substantively good but incomplete, the enforcement hooks not yet installed; it must be perfected by installing them (REG-INVOCATION-001 makes the hook install a must). The Privy Council is the realm-as-state's first-instance / County-Court analogue for realm-level matters: this order incorporates the ratio of [2026] REALM-PC 15 (an archival V1 source, inert in V2 until incorporated) with a mandatory kernel effect to that end. First-instance is not apex: a realm-level PC decision remains appealable upward to the Court of Appeal and the Supreme Court by permission to appeal; no new tier, seat, apex, or citation series is created and the single apex is undisturbed. Settled by ruling and this order; no legislation and no kernel change.

DIRECTIVE	ACTOR	MUST
D1	agent	perfect the canon self invocation by installing the enforcement hooks
D2	agent	treat the privy council as the realm as state first instance for realm level matters
D3	agent	keep a realm level pc first instance decision appealable upward to the ca and sc

FORBIDDEN
exempting the canon from its own law by reason of authorship treating the pc first instance seat as a new apex or relaxing the single apex binding the canon by directory ancestry instead of invocation

The canon self-invokes like any jurisdiction (binding by invocation, not authorship); its lodged invocation must be perfected by installing the hooks. The Privy Council is the realm-as-state's first-instance court (incorporating REALM-PC 15 with a mandatory effect), appealable upward to the CA and SC; no new apex. Ruling + order; no legislation.
