IN THE MATTER OF

Should VJS be re-organised into domain-specific courts (a real-estate court, a legal court, a coding court), mirroring the agents-final department model, or stay unified? Evidence: agents-final (~31 departments, one shared shape per domain).

REQUEST FOR RULING

JUDGMENT

[2026] LEXBY-HARVEY-FI 3 - RE DOMAIN-SPECIFIC COURTS VS ONE SPINE

1. Tier: First Instance (Goffe J, sitting alone, s. 18). Decided: 2026-06-05.
2. Status: ruling delivered; certified for an appeal panel (needs_appeal_panel: true) - the entrenchment question touches the constitutional s. 9 and s. 14 and only the Supreme Court can enact a constitutional re-constitution (s. 9). Pending the Principal's leapfrog certificate (VPR 4) or ordinary progression. Correctives below are ordered but held pending the higher court.
3. Question (Principal): should VJS be re-organised into domain-specific courts (a real-estate court, a legal court, a coding court), mirroring the agents-final department model, or stay unified? Evidence: agents-final (~31 departments, one shared shape per domain).

DISPOSITION: ONE SPINE, DOMAIN DIVISIONS (NOT SEPARATE DOMAIN COURTS)

4. - Characterisation. Two things wear one robe: (1) VJS governance (SPEC-LAW, VPR, duty of care, bench constitution) - within s. 14; and (2) the benchmark agent's legal-analysis "court" - a product feature that borrows the deliberation pattern, NOT governance (s. 14 excludes substantive client legal advice). The confusion between them is the mischief.
5. - Refused: fully-separate domain courts. Separate courts each owning substantive law = the "competing sovereigns" s. 9 forbids; would duplicate the one spine; fails the SPEC-LAW-3 split test.
6. - Held (the law): the English-High-Court model (one court, many divisions - King's Bench / Chancery / Commercial) is already latent in s. 9. A repo is a jurisdiction; the domain supplies only the content of the matter and the form of the output, never a parallel statute or court. Divisions over one spine. No amendment needed to permit divisions; carving into sovereign courts is what would need (and is refused).
7. - agents-final is the right pattern for the product (per-department skills/outputs), and wrong for the judiciary (unitary, not a department).
8. Shared spine (must not fork): SPEC-LAW; the VPR; bench constitution (s. 10/s. 18); duty of care (s. 4-8, 15, 16); progression (s. 10, 13); one governance citation series + citator; jurisdiction-local caselaw as the s. 9 mechanism.

9. Domain-specific (may vary): the substantive content of a matter; the output FORM (architecture ratio vs risk memo vs remediation order); agents-final department capability; the benchmark legal-analysis product; per-repo local precedent.

CORRECTIVES ORDERED (HELD PENDING THE HIGHER COURT)

1. Un-jumble the citator: the benchmark agent's per-issue legal analyses must leave the LEXBY-* namespace (they are product output, s. 14) - use a product-local id, never a [YEAR] LEXBY-<TIER> n citation.
2. Stop the product court borrowing the governance bench/pseudonyms (Goffe J et al. + the Aldermere synthesis) in vjs_system_prompt.md; rename to product roles; no standalone synthesiser (s. 18(4)).
3. Keep governance rulings in one series; add a domain tag to the one citator, never per-domain citators/statutes/courts.
4. Confirm in the harness docs that the agents-final department pattern governs the product, and the judiciary is unitary.
5. Governing law applied: s. 9, s. 14 [constitutional], s. 18, consolidation-over-fragmentation, SPEC-LAW-3. Certified for a panel under s. 17(a).

RATIO DECIDENDI - THE BINDING HOLDING

VJS is one unitary court applying one SPEC-LAW with jurisdiction-local case law (s. 9): domains supply only the content of a matter and the form of its output, never a second sovereign, statute, or court - so the realm may run domain DIVISIONS over one procedural spine but may not fracture into domain COURTS; and the benchmark's legal-analysis deliberation is a product feature outside VJS governance (s. 14) that must be severed from the governance bench, pseudonyms, and citation series.

ORDER - REMEDY

Correctives ordered (held pending the higher court): 1. Un-jumble the citator: the benchmark agent's per-issue legal analyses must leave the LEXBY-* namespace (they are product output, s. 14) - use a product-local id, never a [YEAR] LEXBY-<TIER> n citation. 2. Stop the product court borrowing the governance bench/pseudonyms (Goffe J et al. + the Aldermere synthesis) in vjs_system_prompt.md; rename to product roles; no standalone synthesiser (s. 18(4)). 3. Keep governance rulings in one series; add a domain tag to the one citator, never per-domain citators/statutes/courts. 4. Confirm in the harness docs that the agents-final department pattern governs the product, and the judiciary is unitary.
